

PEARLS
JEWELS PRECIOUS STONES

DREICER & CO
Jewelry
FIFTH AVENUE AT FORTY-FOURTH
NEW YORK

RECOMMENDS MUSIC AS DIVIDEND BOOSTER

Labor Forum to Teach Workers to Voted at Their Tasks.

At last the enigma of the lazy maid and the indolent shop clerk has been solved. Better late than never is the solution of the problem how to get greater efficiency from the dawdling wheelwright and the idling janitor. Let them sing!

That's the secret in a nutshell—let them sing! Turn on "I Didn't Raise My Boy to Be a Soldier," and the directors will be able to declare an extra dividend at the end of the year. Permit the maid to chortle "Everybody's Doing It" while she sweeps, and the vacuum cleaners will be put out of business.

"Music has been crowded out of the everyday life of the workers by the terrible drive of modern industry," said Mrs. Laura M. Elliott, director of music of the Labor Forum, yesterday. "But song is supposed to have originated as an aid and accompaniment to men's rhythmic movement in labor. Labor must claim its own again, and learn to regard music not as a strange gift from human possession, a social force in our daily lives."

Harry Barnhart, director of community singing, of Rochester, has been invited by the Labor Forum to assist in the development of labor music in New York. He will direct the mass singing to-night, when the working people of New York will meet at a special labor music night at Washington Irving School, Irving Place and Seventeenth Street.

DEDICATE Y. M. C. A. COLLEGE

Leaders of Many Sects Attend Chicago Ceremonies—Dr. Mott Speaks.

Chicago, Nov. 28.—Leaders in Young Men's Christian Association work and representatives of many religious sects and educational institutions attended to-day the opening ceremonies dedicating the new building of the Young Men's Christian Association College here. The college is devoted to training men in the secretarial work of the association.

The principal speaker to-day was Dr. John R. Mott, general secretary of the international committee of the organization. The celebration will last four days.

WOMEN WILL ASK FLOOR FOR VOTES PLEA IN CONGRESS

Speeches in Both Houses by Envoys Planned as Final Appeal.

RIGHT WAS DENIED TO MRS. STANTON

Demand Will Be Made When West's Petition Is Presented on the Capitol Steps.

[From The Tribune Bureau.]
Washington, Nov. 28.—A woman will voice on the floor of one or both houses of Congress the demand for a suffrage amendment to the Constitution if plans launched to-night by the Congressional Union are carried out. As a climax to the big demonstrations which will be made here in connection with the annual convention, beginning next Monday, and the reception of the delegates of the Woman Voters' Convention, it has been decided to attempt this final spectacular appeal.

Twenty-eight occasions when outsiders have spoken before formal sessions of the House are pointed to by the suffrage leaders in support of their demand. There have been many more when outsiders spoke on the floor, but the House took a recess for the occasion. The last speaker during a formal session was Parnell, the Irish Home Rule leader, in 1880. Lafayette Kossuth, the King of Hawaii and a score of others also have been heard there. Following Parnell's speech Mrs. Elizabeth Cady Stanton demanded a similar courtesy, but was refused.

Plans for making the formal demand have not yet been completed, but it is expected that it will be presented when the delegates of the Woman Voters' Convention deliver the petition with which they are armed. This will be on December 7, when they will be greeted at the steps of the Capitol by members of Congress.

Envoys Would Be Speakers.

Senator Sutherland and Representative Mondell, who will make the addresses of welcome, will probably be asked to transmit to Congress the request that the women be granted the right to speak from the floor. If the privilege is granted, Miss Frances Johnson and Mrs. Sara Bard Field, the delegates, will be the speakers.

Miss Alice Paul, chairman of the Congressional Union, gave out to-day a statement replying to the attacks on the union for opposing at the last election all Democratic members of Congress, whatever their attitude on suffrage had been, on the ground that the party in power should be held responsible for the defeat of the amendment. "We believe that there is at present before the country no more important issue than the enfranchisement of women," she said. "We believe that there is no finer thing for women who have the vote to do with it than use it to help enfranchise other women. We are absolutely non-partisan, putting the enfranchisement of woman above all parties."

"We believe that, since it is a party government, the way the women of the West can best use their votes for other women is to hold a party in power responsible for what it accomplishes toward their enfranchisement. "Women are not being asked always to vote solidly. That would be impossible and wrong. They are asked to stand together on this one issue of justice to all women until it is received."

MRS. HENRY FORD.

Wife of the automobile manufacturer, who may accompany him on peace voyage.

Women Line Up Leaders for Federal Amendment

Washington, Nov. 28.—The nationwide campaign for the Susan B. Anthony amendment to the Federal Constitution, which simply provides that "the right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of sex," has received many men prominent in official life as advocates of woman suffrage.

The deputations to members of Congress, Governors and other high national and state officials have caused many hopeful and encouraging expressions of opinion. The correspondence of Mrs. Sara Bard Field and Miss Frances Johnson life, the two envoys from the women voters' convention, who are on their way to Washington from San Francisco by motor car to present to the President resolutions and to Congress petitions for the suffrage amendment, is full of promise from leading public men in the various states they have visited.

Governor Woodbridge N. Ferris of Michigan is a firm supporter of the Susan B. Anthony amendment. Representative E. K. Hayes of California, believes the extension of the suffrage entirely within the field of Federal work. Mrs. Hayes and her daughter are members of the Congressional Union.

The Walsh report of the Commission on Industrial Relations and other legislation desired by labor unions gave the disfranchisement of women as one of the causes of the inequality of the wages paid to men and to women. William Hale Thompson, Mayor of Chicago, signed last week the petition and state officials have caused many hopeful and encouraging expressions of opinion. The correspondence of Mrs. Sara Bard Field and Miss Frances Johnson

Representative Peters of Maine, not only approves of the movement generally, but also of the amendment for this year. She is a suffragist. "The Rev. Charles F. Aked, of San Francisco. You know him. He was formerly pastor of John D. Rockefeller Memorial Baptist Church."

"Henry C. Morris, of Chicago. He was formerly Consul to Ghent, Belgium, and was secretary to Chief Justice Taft in The Hague arbitration proceedings."

"Mrs. Joseph Fels, of Philadelphia, widow of the millionaire soap manufacturer, who has given her entire fortune to the single tax movement."

"Mrs. Alice Park, of Palo Alto, Cal. Suffragist."

"Arthur L. Wetherby, Lincoln, Neb., secretary of the Nebraska Peace Society."

"Senator Helen Ring Robinson, of Denver, the only woman Senator in the United States."

"The Rev. S. S. Marquis, of Detroit, during St. Paul's Cathedral, I think."

"Herman Bernstein, of New York City, editor of 'Der Tag,' a Jewish daily."

"John D. Barry, of 'The San Francisco Bulletin,' who wrote appreciations of the artistic values of the Exposition and who lectured daily at the 'Expo.' He is invited because he wants peace."

"Lloyd M. Bingham, of New York City."

"Who is Lloyd M. Bingham?" Mr. Lochner was asked.

"There is a Lloyd M. Bingham, a monologue artist," said one of Mr. Lochner's interviewers.

"Perhaps that's the man," said Mr. Lochner.

For Mr. Lochner's information it was stated that Lloyd M. Bingham is the husband of Amelia Bingham, the actress.

How Selections Are Made.

When this array of names was given by Mr. Lochner he was requested for the secret of the selection, and in selecting those who are asked to go on the peace ship.

"There were three essentials," said Mr. Lochner. "First, the person must have a positive desire to end the war; second, he or she must be neutral; third, the invited one must be in favor of all that the expedition stands for."

Mr. Lochner said that Colonel House, President Wilson's friend, had been invited, but that he declined, and that because of that no one connected with the Wilson administration, officially or otherwise, would be invited. This was to spare them embarrassment.

Mr. Lochner said there was no thought in Mr. Ford's mind that the governors invited would accept. He said that two years invitations were sent to them was to find out the sentiment in the various states.

"It was in the nature of a straw vote," said Mr. Lochner.

THIRTEEN ENLIST FOR FORD VOYAGE

Suffragists, Clergymen and Wealthy Widow Among Peace Ship Passengers.

CENSORS MAY THINK THEM CRAZY, IS HOPE

In This Way Wireless Call Might Get to Trenches, Says Auto Man's Secretary.

Thirteen men and women, including the husband of Amelia Bingham, have so far agreed to sail with Henry Ford December 4, and help him stop the war on Christmas Day. Louis P. Lochner, Mr. Ford's secretary, is sure the wireless call from arms will reach the men in the trenches and that the war strike will be on foot.

When some one suggested that the censors on the other side might prevent the message: "Out of the trenches on Christmas Day, never to return," from reaching the trenches, Mr. Lochner said:

"Of course the idea is fantastic. I don't know for a certainty that it will go through, but what we are banking on is that the censors will think we are crazy and let the message go through."

Mr. Lochner does not care what the military censors of Europe think about the Ford party so long as the orders of Mr. Ford to the fighting men of Europe reach the trenches. "Perhaps the message will reach the soldiers through the ridicule we expect some of the European papers to heap upon us," continued Mr. Lochner. "You know the soldiers get the daily papers. We are not going to wait until Christmas Eve to send the message. We will begin sending it from the peace ship, the Oscar II, when we get in touch with any European wireless station. And then we will continue sending the message until Christmas Day, when we hope the soldiers will lay down their arms and this frightful war will cease."

Exports an Overflow.

Although only thirteen have accepted to date, Mr. Ford and his associates believe that not only will passengers fill the first and second cabins of the Oscar II, which have been chartered for the peace party, but that they will have more than they can comfortably accommodate on the peace ship. To provide for this emergency, passage for the overflow will be engaged on the Frederick VIII, which leaves New York four days after the Oscar II.

"We are not going to wait until Christmas Eve to send the message. We will begin sending it from the peace ship, the Oscar II, when we get in touch with any European wireless station. And then we will continue sending the message until Christmas Day, when we hope the soldiers will lay down their arms and this frightful war will cease."

"Yes," he replied, reading from a list. "First comes Helen Loring Greenleaf, of Denver, Col. She is an ex-student of the University of Chicago, the only woman who ever held that position."

"Then comes the Rev. Jenkin Lloyd Jones, a Unitarian minister, of Chicago. He is very well known out West. He is vice president of the League of Women."

"Every one refers to him as 'Old Uncle Jenks.' He and Jane Adams are the best known settlement workers in the West."

Suffragist in the List.

"Mrs. May Wright Sewall, of Indianapolis. She was in charge of the Women's Peace Congress in Chicago this year. She is a suffragist."

"The Rev. Charles F. Aked, of San Francisco. You know him. He was formerly pastor of John D. Rockefeller Memorial Baptist Church."

"Henry C. Morris, of Chicago. He was formerly Consul to Ghent, Belgium, and was secretary to Chief Justice Taft in The Hague arbitration proceedings."

"Mrs. Joseph Fels, of Philadelphia, widow of the millionaire soap manufacturer, who has given her entire fortune to the single tax movement."

"Mrs. Alice Park, of Palo Alto, Cal. Suffragist."

"Arthur L. Wetherby, Lincoln, Neb., secretary of the Nebraska Peace Society."

"Senator Helen Ring Robinson, of Denver, the only woman Senator in the United States."

"The Rev. S. S. Marquis, of Detroit, during St. Paul's Cathedral, I think."

"Herman Bernstein, of New York City, editor of 'Der Tag,' a Jewish daily."

"John D. Barry, of 'The San Francisco Bulletin,' who wrote appreciations of the artistic values of the Exposition and who lectured daily at the 'Expo.' He is invited because he wants peace."

"Lloyd M. Bingham, of New York City."

"Who is Lloyd M. Bingham?" Mr. Lochner was asked.

"There is a Lloyd M. Bingham, a monologue artist," said one of Mr. Lochner's interviewers.

"Perhaps that's the man," said Mr. Lochner.

For Mr. Lochner's information it was stated that Lloyd M. Bingham is the husband of Amelia Bingham, the actress.

How Selections Are Made.

When this array of names was given by Mr. Lochner he was requested for the secret of the selection, and in selecting those who are asked to go on the peace ship.

"There were three essentials," said Mr. Lochner. "First, the person must have a positive desire to end the war; second, he or she must be neutral; third, the invited one must be in favor of all that the expedition stands for."

Mr. Lochner said that Colonel House, President Wilson's friend, had been invited, but that he declined, and that because of that no one connected with the Wilson administration, officially or otherwise, would be invited. This was to spare them embarrassment.

Mr. Lochner said there was no thought in Mr. Ford's mind that the governors invited would accept. He said that two years invitations were sent to them was to find out the sentiment in the various states.

Today the FINAL DAY—the last OPPORTUNITY of

The Most Important Sale of Men's Distinctive Silk Scarfs

ever held in New York

at 95c 69c 49c 29c

It goes into the merchandising history of this Store and of the city in a blaze of glory. It has made a record not before approached.

Beginning with 40,000 Scarfs, and now offering less than 10,000, the range of choice, the comprehensiveness, the superlative range of fabrics, patterns and colorings are still very attractive. There is less volume, but hardly less variety.

Still 25 Superb European and American Weaves

Broadway Saks & Company at 34th Street

knows we don't need the money, but he sent it to relieve his feelings. Here's a telegram from Mayor Preston, the Mayor of Baltimore, volunteering to go along. We have invited him."

Mr. Lochner said that he would know probably to-morrow if Mrs. Ford would go along with the party.

"We have hopes," said Mr. Lochner. "Mr. Ford said he would try to persuade her to go when he reached Detroit."

PEACE HAILED MASON CALL

State Grand Chaplain Urges Order to Aid Ending of War.

Free Masonry is dedicated to promoting peace in war-ridden Europe, was the message preached by the Rev. Dr. George R. Van de Water last night at a special Masonic service at St. Andrew's Church, Fifth Avenue and 127th Street.

Dr. Van de Water, grand chaplain of the Grand Lodge of this state, also said that it was a Mason's duty to love his country and to be ready to defend it in its hour of need.

TYPISTS ORGANIZE FOR HIGHER WAGES

Forty Thousand Backed by the Women's League Also Strive for Greater Efficiency.

More than 40,000 typewriters beneath the fingers of as many stenographers and typists in New York may soon be clicking out the doctrine of a higher minimum wage and of greater efficiency. Backed by the League for Business Opportunities for Women, of which Mrs. Henry Bruere, wife of the City Chamberlain, is president, the first real organization of the stenographers of Manhattan begins to-day.

"Its purpose will be to give every stenographer a realization of the importance of her work and its possibilities for advancement," said Mrs. Bruere yesterday.

Miss Ida Fingerhut, secretary to Chamberlain Bruere, is chairman of the committee which will organize the stenographers and typists for their mutual benefit.

"It is a big undertaking to organize 40,000 stenographers," she said yesterday. "We have done hardly more than to prepare thousands of posters, which will be displayed throughout the city. The average wage for beginners now is probably $5, and many girls are getting only $3."

STREETCAR HEAD STANDS OFF MOB

Continued from page 1

ductors had arms broken and another had his shoulder dislocated.

Car Windows Broken.

By mid-afternoon the situation in Plymouth was such that only by sheer force could the cars be operated. A few hundred yards or so state policemen were posted, telling the crowd to move on. Sometimes they received an argument in reply. Clubs, however, were trumps, and only a few wished to argue after seeing what happened to those who resisted. From time to time more police were sent to the place until every member of the constabulary on duty in this section was on the job.

Meantime, in the city things had begun to liven up. At noon the crowd was good-natured, but in the afternoon young men and some not so young began arriving in the square with packages wrapped in newspapers. When cars began to come in it was found that these packages contained bricks.

Window after window was broken in veiling of the police, which, however, seemed unable to get the throwers after they disappeared into the crowd. Finally the situation became such that Mayor Kueck was notified. He went to the square and appealed to the rioters to go to their homes. As the last of the cars had been run through the square by this time, his request was heeded.

During the day there were but few passengers on the street cars, only women and children caring to take chances of being hurt. Men who rode on them were given vigorous arguments later in the afternoon. Then a car was seen swinging into the public square with a man on board.

"A scab! Scab!" he cry went up, and the crowd surged about the car when it stopped.

"Kill the scab!" some one yelled. But the supposed scab did not wilt. Instead he threw back his coat, revealing the star of the state constabulary, and the crowd melted from his path. He had done more than the score of mounted men on duty there could or would do.

Extra guards have also been placed upon the tracks of the company and on the bridge leading to Plymouth, where guards were shot at repeatedly last night.

In the midst of the rioting Bergdoff, James A. Waddell's partner, stepped off a train from New York accompanied by his secretary. No one in the crowd recognized him, and he reached the hotel in safety on foot.

To-morrow the committees representing the merchants, the strikers and the union men will meet to discuss the possibility of an agreement, but there is small chance of success, owing to the refusal of the strikers to agree to anything but absolute surrender on the part of the company. This will not be agreed to.

None of the slates advanced for the "Big Four" contained the name of Mr. Roosevelt. But there is nothing to prevent him from becoming a candidate for delegate-at-large should he care to do so.

Colonel Roosevelt has made no public utterance on the subject, but it is the general belief that he will support the next Republican candidate for President, provided, of course, he isn't a rank standpatter. Because of this it was held not to be improbable that he would also like to have a hand in nominating the candidate.

Relief Day Tagger Arrested.

Although yesterday's "Tag Day" in The Bronx for the Jewish Relief Committee for the Jewish Sufferers was highly successful it was not without excitement. One of the volunteers solicitors was arrested, charged with annoying a citizen by his insistent efforts to obtain a contribution. The police said the entire day's efforts had been made without the necessary legal permission. According to Alderman Harry Robbitt, the resolution permitting the Tag Day was passed by the Aldermen Wednesday but could not come before the Mayor until this morning.

Excellent Behavior May Win Them Christmas Furlough Is Rumor.

Seven hundred naval cadets, including the members of the football team that lost to the Army on Saturday, left for Annapolis yesterday morning, after spending the night at New York hotels for the first time in the history of the Academy. Without exception, in former years, the cadets returned the night of the game, but owing to the excellent behavior of the cadets of the 1914 class the middies were allowed to remain over this year.

The officers and staff made their headquarters at the Hotel Vanderbilt, and the men were housed at the McAlpin, the Marlborough, the Imperial and the Park Avenue. Most of them spent the evening at the theatre, and several of the hotels ran dances in honor of their guests. In every place the men were on their best behavior, as it was rumored that if all went well they would be allowed a week's furlough at Christmas.

Relatives and sweethearts were on hand to hear the farewell cheer of the cadets as they boarded their trains at the Pennsylvania Station shortly after 10 o'clock.

CADETS RETURN TO SCHOOL

Excellent Behavior May Win Them Christmas Furlough Is Rumor.

Seven hundred naval cadets, including the members of the football team that lost to the Army on Saturday, left for Annapolis yesterday morning, after spending the night at New York hotels for the first time in the history of the Academy. Without exception, in former years, the cadets returned the night of the game, but owing to the excellent behavior of the cadets of the 1914 class the middies were allowed to remain over this year.

The officers and staff made their headquarters at the Hotel Vanderbilt, and the men were housed at the McAlpin, the Marlborough, the Imperial and the Park Avenue. Most of them spent the evening at the theatre, and several of the hotels ran dances in honor of their guests. In every place the men were on their best behavior, as it was rumored that if all went well they would be allowed a week's furlough at Christmas.

Relatives and sweethearts were on hand to hear the farewell cheer of the cadets as they boarded their trains at the Pennsylvania Station shortly after 10 o'clock.

CADETS RETURN TO SCHOOL

Excellent Behavior May Win Them Christmas Furlough Is Rumor.

Seven hundred naval cadets, including the members of the football team that lost to the Army on Saturday, left for Annapolis yesterday morning, after spending the night at New York hotels for the first time in the history of the Academy. Without exception, in former years, the cadets returned the night of the game, but owing to the excellent behavior of the cadets of the 1914 class the middies were allowed to remain over this year.

The officers and staff made their headquarters at the Hotel Vanderbilt, and the men were housed at the McAlpin, the Marlborough, the Imperial and the Park Avenue. Most of them spent the evening at the theatre, and several of the hotels ran dances in honor of their guests. In every place the men were on their best behavior, as it was rumored that if all went well they would be allowed a week's furlough at Christmas.

Relatives and sweethearts were on hand to hear the farewell cheer of the cadets as they boarded their trains at the Pennsylvania Station shortly after 10 o'clock.

CADETS RETURN TO SCHOOL

Excellent Behavior May Win Them Christmas Furlough Is Rumor.

Seven hundred naval cadets, including the members of the football team that lost to the Army on Saturday, left for Annapolis yesterday morning, after spending the night at New York hotels for the first time in the history of the Academy. Without exception, in former years, the cadets returned the night of the game, but owing to the excellent behavior of the cadets of the 1914 class the middies were allowed to remain over this year.

The officers and staff made their headquarters at the Hotel Vanderbilt, and the men were housed at the McAlpin, the Marlborough, the Imperial and the Park Avenue. Most of them spent the evening at the theatre, and several of the hotels ran dances in honor of their guests. In every place the men were on their best behavior, as it was rumored that if all went well they would be allowed a week's furlough at Christmas.

Relatives and sweethearts were on hand to hear the farewell cheer of the cadets as they boarded their trains at the Pennsylvania Station shortly after 10 o'clock.

CADETS RETURN TO SCHOOL

Excellent Behavior May Win Them Christmas Furlough Is Rumor.

Seven hundred naval cadets, including the members of the football team that lost to the Army on Saturday, left for Annapolis yesterday morning, after spending the night at New York hotels for the first time in the history of the Academy. Without exception, in former years, the cadets returned the night of the game, but owing to the excellent behavior of the cadets of the 1914 class the middies were allowed to remain over this year.

The officers and staff made their headquarters at the Hotel Vanderbilt, and the men were housed at the McAlpin, the Marlborough, the Imperial and the Park Avenue. Most of them spent the evening at the theatre, and several of the hotels ran dances in honor of their guests. In every place the men were on their best behavior, as it was rumored that if all went well they would be allowed a week's furlough at Christmas.

Relatives and sweethearts were on hand to hear the farewell cheer of the cadets as they boarded their trains at the Pennsylvania Station shortly after 10 o'clock.

CADETS RETURN TO SCHOOL

Excellent Behavior May Win Them Christmas Furlough Is Rumor.

Seven hundred naval cadets, including the members of the football team that lost to the Army on Saturday, left for Annapolis yesterday morning, after spending the night at New York hotels for the first time in the history of the Academy. Without exception, in former years, the cadets returned the night of the game, but owing to the excellent behavior of the cadets of the 1914 class the middies were allowed to remain over this year.

The officers and staff made their headquarters at the Hotel Vanderbilt, and the men were housed at the McAlpin, the Marlborough, the Imperial and the Park Avenue. Most of them spent the evening at the theatre, and several of the hotels ran dances in honor of their guests. In every place the men were on their best behavior, as it was rumored that if all went well they would be allowed a week's furlough at Christmas.

Relatives and sweethearts were on hand to hear the farewell cheer of the cadets as they boarded their trains at the Pennsylvania Station shortly after 10 o'clock.

CADETS RETURN TO SCHOOL

Excellent Behavior May Win Them Christmas Furlough Is Rumor.

Seven hundred naval cadets, including the members of the football team that lost to the Army on Saturday, left for Annapolis yesterday morning, after spending the night at New York hotels for the first time in the history of the Academy. Without exception, in former years, the cadets returned the night of the game, but owing to the excellent behavior of the cadets of the 1914 class the middies were allowed to remain over this year.

The officers and staff made their headquarters at the Hotel Vanderbilt, and the men were housed at the McAlpin, the Marlborough, the Imperial and the Park Avenue. Most of them spent the evening at the theatre, and several of the hotels ran dances in honor of their guests. In every place the men were on their best behavior, as it was rumored that if all went well they would be allowed a week's furlough at Christmas.

Relatives and sweethearts were on hand to hear the farewell cheer of the cadets as they boarded their trains at the Pennsylvania Station shortly after 10 o'clock.

CADETS RETURN TO SCHOOL

Excellent Behavior May Win Them Christmas Furlough Is Rumor.

Seven hundred naval cadets, including the members of the football team that lost to the Army on Saturday, left for Annapolis yesterday morning, after spending the night at New York